NUMBER 304

Cleveland hit the democrats hard in his silver letter.

The democrats in Washington will feel bigger on Wednesday than the moment.

Mr. Cleveland's cabinet will probably create more of a surprise than Burdett's alliteration.

Guessing has been all in vain. People know less about the cabinet than they did two months ago.

President Arthur has issued a proclamation concerning the United States in an executive session on the 4th of March.

A complication of ailments are making General Grant a very sick man. He seems to think that his days are waning numbered.

Whenever Hannibal Hamlin wears an overcoat he takes cold. Office kept him warm for forty years, but an overcoat won't do it.

If windows in Washington sell for $50 each on inauguration day, what would a chair be worth on top of the Washington monument?

Robert C. Winthrop's Washington monument address contains 12,771 words, of which 10,168 are Anglo-Saxon in origin, 2,131 from Latin, 288 Greek and 155 French.

For the first time in the history of the State, a bill has been passed by the assembly to cover into the treasury unexpended appropriations to state institutions. This shows how thoroughly well have these institutions been managed.

The Madison Democrat takes time to say "that the vote on suspension of silver coinage was not partisan in any sense. There were in favor of suspension 63 republicans and 55 democrats. There were opposed to it 115 democrats and 34 republicans. Of the Wisconsin members Deuster, Gauthier, Jones, Winsor and Woodman voted for suspension. Sumner, Price and Stephenson voted against it." By the Democrat's own mouth, however, it is proved that the majority of the republicans were wiser than the majority of the democrats.

The editor of the New York Tribune puts his ear to the telephone, and here is the conversation he heard:

Doolittle (at the telephone) Hello! Cleveland, hello!

Cleveland—Hello! hello! Who's that?

Doolittle—It's I. Judge Doolittle of Wisconsin.

Cleveland—Well, what can I do for you?

Doolittle—Nothing. I thought I would step to the telephone and let you know that I wanted nothing.

Cleveland (winking at Lamont)—You shall have it, judge. Good-bye.

THE STORY OF THE SAVINGS BANKS.

New York like Massachusetts, can boast of its saving banks. The annual report of the superintendent of the banking department of that state, furnishes some interesting facts relative to the condition of the savings banks of that state. They are 126 in number, holding deposits to the amount of $47,107,501. The depositors number 1,168,174, or more than one-fifth of the whole population of the state. The deposits average $374.61 each, and the average rate of interest paid was 3.44 per cent. The number of depositors increased 17,586 during the year and the amount of deposits $2,027,401. The effect of the present depression in business is shown to a marked degree in the small increase in deposits, they having increased for the five preceding years at the annual rate of more than $20,000,000.

The savings bank system in New York is placed on a solid foundation. All the institutions are financially sound. But one savings bank was closed during the year, and that simply wound up for want of remunerative business, paying its depositors in full. Not a single failure occurred, although several national and a good many private banks were carried down by the rashness of officers and the shrinkage in values caused by the general business depression. The reason that these banks are more solid than some of the national banks is that the state compels an admirable system of investigation of their condition, and also that the states likewise compels the banks to invest their funds in none but the best securities.

It will be seen from this condition of things that there is an air of thrift among the people of the Empire state. Notwithstanding the depression which generally prevails, the working people of New York have been able to make important deposits in the saving banks of the state.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISION AND ITS SERVICE TO THE STATE.

The Gazette made mention the other day that Asa Newell of Newell's had introduced a bill providing for a reorganization of the State board of supervision (reducing the membership of the board from five to three) and taking the management of the Institution for the blind and that for the deaf and dumb, from the board of supervision. It seems that Mr. Newell did not draft the bill, and only introduced it by special request.

The legislature of Wisconsin has been very judicious in adopting reform measures. Being composed very largely of practical men—men who desired to thoroughly represent the people in matters pertaining to economy and reform—the legislature conceived the splendid idea of placing the six charitable, reformatory and penal institutions of the state under a uniform system of management. This was a little over three years ago, and the experience and the lessons of those years tell the people that the legislature of Wisconsin never before or since, enacted a law which has given better financial results, beside lasting benefits in other respects, than that which placed the six state institutions under the management of the State board of supervision.

The people are interested in knowing just how the charitable, reformatory institutions are being managed under the new system as compared with the old, and the Gazette will give a few facts and figures that the people will gladly read, and that are well worth remembering.

Under the local board system, which was never a uniform and satisfactory system of management, the six state institutions—the State hospital for the insane, the Northern hospital for the insane, the institution for the deaf and dumb, the institution for the blind, the Industrial school for boys and the State prison—cost the state in 1878, $423,387; in 1879, $422,283; in 1880, $40,293.

Now then, let us see what kind of a showing the years '82, '83 and '84 will make with the management of the six institutions under the State board of supervision. There was spent for material and wages in the boot and shoe department of the Winona Industrial school—$40,493, for 1882; $51,861 for 1883; and $40,691 for 1884, but these amounts were expended for material and wages and of course the money returned to the treasury when the manufactured articles were sold, they must be deducted from the total expenditures of those years, as that, as compared with '78, '79 and '80, the total expenditures for '82, '83 and '84 under the management of the State board of supervision, were as follows: for 1882, $431,451; for 1883, $397,730; and for 1884, $373,775.

Although there has been an increase in the population of all the six institutions excepting probably that for the blind, during the last three years over the population of '78, '79 and '80, the expenses of running them has gradually decreased under the skillful management of the State board of supervision. Here is the standing of the account:

State hospital for blind, decrease for three years—1,450 inmates at $100.00 per month—$14,500. Northern hospital for three years—1,700 inmates at $140.00 per month—$23,800. State hospital for deaf, decrease for three years—489 inmates at $88.73 per month—$4,207.37. State prison, decrease for three years—1,357 inmates at $29.36 per month—$39,812. Total—$25,523.23.

The increase has been:

For blind, increase for three years—183,000. Northern hospital for three years—1,400 inmates at $174.70 per month—$24,810. State prison, increase for three years—912 inmates at $17.75 per month—$15,576.90.

It will be seen from these figures that there has been a net saving to the state in three years of $197,703.54; or an annual average saving of $65,901.18. This of course rests upon the assumption that with a continuance of the old system of management the same scale of expenditure would have continued. Surely no more conclusive evidence of the economy of the existing system of caring for the wards of the state could be presented."

There is another excellent point which has been gained under the splendid management of the board of supervisors. The character of the substance, especially in the two hospitals for the insane has been much improved. The due has grown better and the quantity enlarged, which is a God-send in many instances to the unfortunate classes who find their way to our charitable institutions. Let us give some items on this subject. The Gazette has been permitted to examine the report of the food duly served to the patients of the Northern hospital, and in one word the bill of fare for the day was as follows: For breakfast—bacon, bacon, potatoes, gravy, bread, butter, coffee, milk, milk-tossed, boiled milk; for dinner—potatoes, bacon soup, cabbage, milk and pudding; for supper—biscuit, butter, baked apples, pickles, milk, tea, toast and milk. In the state hospital for the insane, the bill of fare in one of the wards, was this: Breakfast—coffee, tea, milk, bread, butter, hash; dinner—bread, potatoes, tomatoes, bread, butter, tea, milk, biscuit, butter, apple sauce. These are not exceptions in any of these. Throughout the wards particular attention was paid to the diet of the unfortunate—a grand feature of the present system of management—and in many cases there were special dishes for those whose condition demanded them. Thus has the State board of supervision done a splendid thing for the inmates of those institutions in providing wholesome food, of good quality, and plenty of it, and at the same time it has largely decreased the cost of managing the institutions. Its aim has been to expand the money where it would do the most good, and the beneficial results have far exceeded the expectation of the friends of the new system.

On another point the Gazette will allow the State board of supervision to speak for itself: "Believing that these institutions are a sacred trust from the state to be managed solely for the benefit of the unfortunate and for the protection of society, the board has subordinated merely personal considerations to the promotion of these primary objects. This course, resulting, in a few instances in misconceptions and harsh criticisms of the board, was not the one which it would have chosen had it been seeking a smooth sea and favorable breezes. But being the one indicated by official duty it has been pursued without fear, or regret, or the expectation of other reward than that which results from the consciousness of having been instrumental in enlarging in some degree the scope of the state's charities, without any increase of their financial burden."

These are many words from capable and faithful public officials.

THE DYING SOLDIER.

GEN. GRANT'S LIFE RAPIDLY NEARING ITS CONCLUSION.

His Physicians Believe a Few Months Will Close His Career—Dr. Douglass' Statement—The General's Appearance and Sufferings—Deucher's Prayer.

Consumptives and all, who suffer from any affection of the throat and lungs, can find a certain cure if Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. Thousands of permanent cures verify the truth of this statement. No medicine can show such a record of wonderful cures. Thousands of once hopeless sufferers now gratefully proclaim they owe their lives to this new discovery. It will cost you nothing to give it a trial. Free trial bottles at F. Sherer & Co's drug store. Large size, $1.00.

New York, March 2.—The announcement of Gen. Grant's failing health and probably fatal illness Saturday caused great surprise. Among his numerous friends anxious inquiries were made as to his condition, coupled with expressions of hope that the rumors had been exaggerated, and that the general would be restored to health. It is now believed that the malady from which Gen. Grant is suffering cannot but have a fatal termination, and also that his dissolution may take place within a very short time—a few months being the maximum period of his life, with the shortest time, perhaps, not exceeding a month. All the physicians in attendance are agreed that his sufferings are intensified by a realization of the painful fact that his sufferings are of the most intense character. He can only have temporary relief while sleeping, and even this during the past few nights became an insomniac. His appetite, however, has been added to his other complaints, and he is gradually getting stronger.

His wife and all his children, with the exception of Mrs. Sartoris, who has been enabled to return to England, are constantly in attendance on the general, and their deep sorrow is intensified by a realization of the painful fact that his sufferings are of the most intense character. He can only have temporary relief while sleeping, and even this during the past few nights became an insomniac. His appetite, however, has been added to his other complaints, and he is gradually getting stronger.

Last evening Marshal Hogan was called to the stable of Dr. Brown, on Park street, to care for a horse, supposed to be suffering with hydrophobia. The suffering animal was confined in a box stall, and was raving mad, at times barking, imitating a dog. The marshal finally killed the horse. The animal belonged to a German farmer near Hanover.

The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at the house, at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. C. M. Fuller officiating.

It is not known which society, the Masons, Odd Fellows, or Concordia society, will have the management of the funeral, as the family are waiting to hear from Dr. Atkinson, whose deceased held membership in the two first named orders.

We call especial attention to the advertisement in this issue of Mr. J. C.
